Weekly Market Update

Primary market environment: Rising economic concerns in both Germany and Europe have been the dominant market drivers of late. The likelihood of further ECB rate hikes has diminished, which has boosted bond markets. Credit spreads were mixed.

Primary market barometer

SSAs

The SSA segment finally came out of the primary summer break this week. Issuances from major issuers KfW, NRW.BANK, EFSF and BNG were well received. We expect this sentiment to continue and anticipate further issues.

Covered Bonds

The German early movers of the previous week were followed by a number of covered bond issuers from around the world. They took advantage of the attractiveness of the asset class after the summer break. We expect the issuance climate to remain positive in the week ahead.

Senior Unsecured

The blackout periods due to the end of the quarterly reporting season are still having an impact, but issuers are also starting to return to the market in this segment after the summer break. We expect primary market activity to pick up noticeably in the coming weeks..

The sentiment for SSAs and covered bonds is increasingly positive. The red tint on the Risk Trend Indicator has disappeared. Senior unsecured investors continue to be relatively risk averse..

SSAs

As expected, SSA issuance has picked up this week. Order books are smaller than in the pre-summer months. Nevertheless, significant volumes can be achieved. The five issuers sold bonds with maturities of 3, 5, 7, 10 and 15 years and a total issue size of EUR 9.6 bn. In the EFSF transaction, investors showed much more interest in the longer 15-year tranche on Wednesday. This was probably due to the fact that the 5-year tranche offered by NRW.BANK at the same time was attractively priced. The financial spreads of this week's issues (with the exception of the shorter ESFS tranche) narrowed by one to two basis points compared to the marketing.

Outlook: We expect investor sentiment to continue to attract more issuers to the market next week.

Covered Bonds

After DZ Hyp, Germany's largest Pfandbrief issuer, made its debut after the summer break last week, two more large Pfandbrief houses, Commerzbank and Helaba, followed suit this week, both with 5-year paper. They were joined by eight covered bond issuers from Australia, Slovakia, Denmark, the UK, France, Austria and Sweden, bringing the volume of new issues this year up by EUR 9 bn to around EUR 158 bn. The smaller Slovak issuers, however, suffered from the large supply and recorded lower bid-to-cover ratios.

For Pfandbriefe with a limited issue size of EUR 500 million, the premium over the secondary market curve was most recently around 3 basis points (bp); for this week's issues, which tended to be larger in size, it was closer to 5 bp (HESLAN 3 ⅜ 01/20/28) and 6 bp (CMZB 3 ⅜ 08/28). Despite this slight upward trend, we continue to view the market as very receptive. The asset class is attractive and offers reasonable pick-ups compared to the SSA segment.

“The new pricing points are naturally putting some selling pressure on the old bonds, either through swaps into new issues or through continued selling pressure at the longer end. In particular, Dutch covered bonds in the 10-15 year range have been under pressure in recent days. Finally, we continue to see a steepening of credit curves, which is also offsetting part of the inverse yield curve.”

Comment from the Helaba trading floor

Outlook: We expect to see more issuers to be in the pipeline for next week, taking advantage of the constructive market environment.

Chart of the Week

Seit Juli weiteten sich die Sekundärmarktsreads bei den Senior Unsecured-Anleihen deutlich aus, während die Risikoaufschläge im Covered Bond Segment bislang relativ stabil blieben. Aus unserem Handelsraum hören wir, dass Anleger aus dem „Real Money“-Segment immer mehr dazu tendieren, Bonds (womöglich mit niedrigen Kupons) zu verkaufen, vermutlich um Platz für Neuemissionen (mit den aktuell attraktiven höheren Kupons) zu schaffen. Davon profitieren sowohl Covered Bonds als auch die Neuemissionen, die diese Woche im Senior Unsecured-Segment nach der Sommerpause auf dem erwachten Primärmarkt erscheinen. Zuletzt zeigte sich eine gewisse Stabilisierung.

Senior Unsecured

In the senior unsecured segment, primary market activity is relatively subdued for the time being, which we attribute in part to the blackout periods that still exist in some cases due to the recent quarterly reporting season. The focus is on longer maturities. The Italian market leader, Intesa, issued a dual preferred tranche with maturities of 4 and 8 years, generating an order book of an impressive EUR 4.5 bn for a total placement volume of EUR 2.25 bn. Japan's Mizuho Financial Group issued a 7-year non-preferred bond amounting to 0.75 bn EUR that was 2.3 times oversubscribed.

"The summer lull in the markets is slowly coming to an end and new issue activity is picking up. However, investor activity remains below average with flows well balanced. Spread widening is nevertheless supporting activity on the money side. Real money is increasingly tending to sell bonds. ETF funds are also selling as they experience outflows. Both, retail and private banking are acting as buyers, while fast money accounts are awakening to new activity as the primary market picks up."

Comment from the Helaba trading floor

Outlook: High maturities continue to dominate primary market activity in the senior unsecured segment. Many banks have already made good progress in issuing bail-in capital to meet regulatory requirements, allowing them to issue cheaper preferred bonds. Medium and longer maturities look relatively attractive. We expect primary market activity to pick up in the coming weeks, although timing will remain a challenge given the upcoming central bank decisions and volatile markets.

Leisure tip for the weekend: Schielowsee / Lakeside resort Caputh (Dahme-Spreewald district)

"Schielowsee is cosy, sunny and has the good-naturedness of all broad natures," said Fontane, describing the lake close to Potsdam. Covering almost 60 square kilometres, it is the largest natural lake in Brandenburg. It not only has two beautiful bathing areas, but also excellent water quality. The lakeside resort of Caputh is a dream. On the white sandy beach, under large palm trees and with a fantastic view over the lake, you can feel the Caribbean. At the cocktail and champagne bar on the pier, right on the water, you can enjoy the romantic sunset with a drink.
